COURT PUNISHES OFFENDERS OF THE LAW--NO MERCY SHOWN WIFE BEATERS--SPEEDING MUST CEASE

Max Johns was heralded into police court this morning where he was forced to confront his wife and family on account of a spree the night before. Johns looked blear eyed and he sat up looking insolently at his loved ones who had been victims of abuse. The charge as read from the slips was wife beating and the victim of the wrath appeared with a little baby in arms. A thirteen years old daughter acted the embarrassing part of interpreter. The girl said her father came home drunk, struck her mother twice, went over to the house of a cousin and broke several windows and raised particular ned around the community until the police arrived and took him away. The burgess decided that a fine of about the size of the blows he struck would be a good thing for Johns and he imposed $15.00 and costs or five days to hard labor on the streets. The prisoner was reincarcerated for the time being.

It will be three weeks in the hospital and an operation for John Paula of Fourth street. Mrs. Paula may also have to go to such an institution on account of the mule tactics of a boarder in the home, John Fazuchanie. John got on a wild spree and began to kick the boarding Missus and Mr. He kicked Paula just below the slats and caused a rupture and a physician had to be summoned. When Mrs. Paula interceded for her husband, she was kicked the same place with painful results. John Kosko claims he was taking the kicker away when the patrol arrived and gathered up the whole bag of tricks and hummed off to the police station.

There wasn't much to the hearing so far as the burgess court was concerned as the parties seemed to want to settle and they left to talk it over in the jail. Dr. Day who had bandaged the wounded man up, was present to give medical testimony. He said the expense of an operation and three weeks in the hospital would mean a big sacrifice and the parties should settle if possible. Pazuchanie is said to have a savings account in a local bank.

A couple of drunks were fined the usual amounts, $1.00 and costs. The motorcycle policeman is daily turnin in numbers and notices are being sent out to speeders. Burgess Stewart has not yet started a wholesale fining process which is bound to result unless the automobile drivers live up to the law. The rate of speed through the town is 15 miles an hour, and those who exceed this limit do so at their own risk. It is not the fault of the magistrate if the "fine and costs" is resorted to as a means to accomplish an end. The use of the open exhaust or cutout is forbidden and all persons are notified by the police department to obey the law as laid down for the protection of life and the comfort and well being of the people.

Recruiting Station for Merchant Marines

There are many patriotic and enthusiastic men who would join Uncle Sam's merchant marine if they were informed as to the whereabouts of the enrolling station in this locality.

Hence as a matter of information for all, we state that the Harry F. Craig drug store on Donner avenue is headquarters for enrolling in this department of war service, and all persons between the ages of 21 and 30 years are entitled to register after which they are sent to Pittsburgh marine headquarters for examination.

Mr. Craig works through the well known Rexall Drug Co., which is "doing its bit" by having all its representatives use their stores as recruiting stations for the Merchant Marines.

This service has 6,954 enrolling stations at Rexall drug stores, each station being in charge of an enrolling agent, who serves the United States Shipping Board at $1 00 a year. These agents are steadily signing up the men needed for the training fleet of the New Merchant Marine. Only American citizens Letween 21 and 31 years of age and physically sound are accepted for training.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the United States Shipping Board states:

"The most important work for which volunteers are wanted in our shipping program at this moment is shoveling coal aboard ship. The coal-passer and the fireman are the men of the hour. The need of men is acute. The shovel is as mighty at sea as on the battlefront.

"I am informed by the Recruiting Service of the Shipping Board that 1,500 men a month are needed to meet the demands of the new merchant fleet for coal-passers and firemen. Any man who can shovel coal aboard ship and does not offer himself now for such service is not doing his whole duty by his country.

"The men will be first put on board training ships maintained by the Shipping Board, and after getting the swing of the shovel will be sent out in the crews of our merchant vessels. Under a new wage scale coal-passers get $65 and firemen $75 a month. There is a bonus of 50 per cent on these wages for mercantile voyages through the war zone. Chances for promotion are good. These jobs are first steps towards an engineer's position.

"Any American between 21 and 30, in good health, who weighs at least 140 pounds and is at least 5 feet 4 inches tall, may qualify as a coal-passer or fireman. Men accepted for this service will not be called for military duty."

FAREWELL IN HONOR OF COLORED DRAFTEES--MANY PAY RESPECTS TO BOYS WHO WILL HELP WIN WAR

With all the zeal of patriots, there assembled Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. William Gazaway on Grant street about three hundred colored citizens who were bent on giving a rousing send off to the young men who left for Camp Custer on Thursday evening, Aug. 1st.

This vast assembly was called together by the courtesy of Mr. Gazaway and friends, to take charge of his commodious home and spacious lawn and help to make things pleasant for those who were soon to leave. Everything was in perfect order, plans were well arranged and at an early hour the people began to make their appearance.

The home and lawn were beautifully decorated and the stripes and stars were prominent everywhere; a splendid program was carried out with Moses King as master of ceremonies, who acted the part well. Mrs. Edward Scales presided at the piano and William Taylor led the singing in which the audience joined, especially when "America" was sung, when the men stood with bared heads.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. Onley of the Central Baptist church and patriotic addresses were delivered by Revs. J. W. Jarvis and J. E. Morris, a former pastor of the Wayman A. M. E. church. Both addresses were well received and the audience showed its appreciation by continued applause.

A sumptous lunch was served the draftees. prices of things was not a consideration as the colored people feel that nothing is too good for those who have answered the call of the nation to defend its honor and to make the world safe for democracy. Those who stay behind will maintain the honor of the flag and protect every interest of the nation and do their part in the nation's behalf.

Merry-making became the order after the supper and all had a pleasant time bidding the draftees "Bon Voyage" All parted feeling that they had done their duty and gave credit to Mr. Gazaway and friends for the tribute to those worthy young men.

At the hour of departure for camp, a large number of people of both races were on hand to bid the boys Godspeed, while martial airs were rendered by the Slavish band. Lunches were provided by the Negro-Civic League. The boys left with the good wishes of all.

Beli Employes are Asked to Remain Loyal

To the Employees of the Bell Telephone Company:—

Under the authority of the law and by the proclamation of the President, possession and control of the wire business passed to the Post Master General as of August first.

In a conference held in Washington, at which was present the Post Master General, the Government Operative Commissioner and Representatives of the Bell Companies, the Post Master General most emphatically expressed his appreciation of the service which the Bell companies were rendering, and that such improvement possible would be made because of the additional power derived from the government for the co-operation and assistance of those who have heretofore been responsible for the service.

The Post Master General was equally emphatic in the statement of his desire to conserve the service and properties of the company with the view of returning them when called upon so to do to the owners in as good condition as they were received—that it was his earnest desire that the owners should receive just compensation in the full sense for their use.

The Post Master General, until other instructions are issued, desires that the conduct of operation continue as heretofore and also states that no change will be made until after consultation and full and careful consideration.

To you who are identified with the Bell companies, who have shown your fine sense of obligation and fidelity through the company, through the public service and to the property in the past and to whom the credit is due for the prestige and preference of the company in the public eye—it is asked, and it is not too much to ask of you for the same loyalty, fidelity and devotion to service under the new order of things. On your behalf such loyalty, fidelity and devotion to service have been common, knowing full well the spirit in which you will respond to the request.

To do one's full duty in each position is the greatest obligation resting upon each person and is also the greatest opening for future preferment.

Theodore O. Vail. Pres.

CHILD RUN DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

Raymond Upton, a 6 year old boy, was run down about 4 yesterday afternoon by an automobile, receiving a number of cuts about the face and a severely bruised wrist. The machine was owned by Carl Thebom of 528 Sixth street and was being driven by the son Richard. It is claimed the child was playing in the street in front of the machine, the driver claiming that he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the child. The accident occurred at the corner of Ninth and Knox, and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Upton live in one of the Nash houses in an alley back of Knox avenue.

Athletics Will Make Youths Fit for Service Calling for Strength

By JOSEPHUS DANIELS, Secretary of the Navy

Nothing could better prove the falsity of the widespead notion, prevalent before the war, that Young America lacked the sterner virtues of the Paul Reveres and Nathan Hales than the readiness with which they flocked into the army and navy when war was declared. Their patriotic zeal made them so insistent to begin training at once that it taxed the country to provide the facilities demanded. Colleges set the pace in sending—no, in witnessing—the entrance of their choicest spirits into those camps and stations and cantonments and ships where they could be most quickly trained for military service. Young collegians who had been trained in athletics were seen to possess an incalculable advantage over their associates who had permitted delving in Greek roots to deny them time to develop their muscles.

As the war goes on, the army and the navy must increase as rapidly as the industrial plants can equip them and tonnage can be supplied to transport them to France. Most colleges have added military instruction, and this training, coupled with college athletics, will make the youths fit for the service calling for strength and ability to endure hardships. Softness is incompatible with efficient military service. In every branch college men are proving that in modern education a sound body must go with a sound mind. How will the younger men be made ready for what they will shortly be called upon to do? Colleges will answer that question by encouraging college athletics, and emphasizing those games which insure that all the student body will be benefited by them. Intercollegiate games stimulate interest and should be encouraged. The stimulus of athletics, both in an improved morale and in an improved body, is everywhere recognized. Let it be emphasized more now that the need for youths of sinew and stuff is more felt than ever before.

Italy's Break With Former Allies to Join in Great War Explained

By PROF. GRANT SHOWERMAN, University of Wisconsin

Italy's war is a people's war. She entered spurred by sympathy with Trieste and the Trentino, by the accumulated hatred of a hundred years for the Austrian tyrant and by indignation at the arrogance and brutality of the Teutonic powers.

First, Italy promptly and decidedly refused to obey the summons of Germany and Austria to come to their aid. This she was able to do without any manner of unfaithfulness to the triple alliance, because it required her to support only in case of defensive war and because Austria herself had violated the terms of the alliance by altering the status of the Balkan territories without previous arrangement with Italy. In this way Italy declared to the world her condemnation of German and Austrian aggression.

Secondly, at the beginning of hostilities Italy promptly withdrew her troops from the French frontier, thus not only signifying her friendliness toward France but making possible the transfer and use of 400,000 soldiers in the campaign which ended in the victory of the Marne. Nothing could have got the Italian army and navy to fight against England and France.

Thirdly, when Italy did finally take up arms it was at the time of Russian retreat and reverse for the allies. She entered the war then as a people rather than a mere government. Such was the intensity of their passion that the Italian ministry faced no less a question than that of war or revolution.

Vital Need of Present Hour Is Real Peace That Will Be Lasting

By WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

Every one wants peace. But it must be a real peace. The last hope of a beaten Germany is to get a peace that will not be a real one. Clear, straight thinking in America will help to make that impossible. That, after all, has been vital to this hour. It was straight thinking that led some people to see in Von Hertling's reply to President Wilson's last speech an evasion in the matter of Belgium. The German chancellor said in effect that Germany had never meant to keep Belgium, and that the whole matter of Belgium was one to be brought up in the peace conference.

Never! The only question that can even conceivably come up concerning Belgium in the peace conference is that of the exact method by which Germany is to make what little reparation money can make for the crime of rape. There can't be a peace conference, even, until Germany has agreed, convincingly, to evacuate Belgium and repair the wrong she has done there. And that applies as much to northern France and to Serbia as to Belgium.

Better Mail Service for Soldiers

A report from General Pershing in France regarding army mail service, transmitted to the Senate by Secretary Baker, recites that measures are being taken to improve the service and attributes delays principally to misaddressing.

On August 1, General Pershing said, a new mail service involving the co-operation between the American postal and army authorities and the French Government will be inaugurated by which it is hoped soldiers will get their mail more promptly. Special postal cars will be provided to forward the mail on the railroads and information will be given the military authorities in charge of the service of contemplated troop movements.

Since the army took over the soldiers' mail, General Pershing said, considerable improvement has been noted and the amount of undelivered mail matter decreased.

ANNOUNCE WAGE INCREASE

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company yesterday announced wage increases approximating 10 per cent. and effective today to laborers in its manufacturing plants. Other wage rates, it was stated, will be suitably adjusted, excepting in cases where recent advances have been made. It is estimated that this wage increase to laborers will affect about 4,000 men.

Predicts Famine

The famous "hunger stone" in the River Elbe, near Tetschen, which, according to popular belief in Germany, predicts a famine when seen, is now visible for the first time since the beginning of the war.

The stone lies in the bed of the river and has never been visible save at exceptionally low tide. On the stone is chiselled in old German: "When ye see me, ye shall weep."

Destination—Berlin.

"Well, Sam, are you goin' with this bunch? I suppose you are goin' to France right soon ain't you?" the girl asked.

"Not exactly," replied the soldier candidate. "I suppose I'll go through France, but, you see, I'm on my way to Berlin."—Indianapolis News.

Doctor Prescribes Vinol

For This Weak, Nervous Mother, Because He Knows the Formula

Jacksonville, Ill.—"I have a twenty months old baby and keep house for my little family, but got into a weak, run-down nervous condition, tired all the time and no ambition. My doctor told me to try Vinol and in a week, I felt like a new person. I am now strong again, look after my baby and do all my housework."—Mrs. G. H. Lamson.

The reason we recommend Vinol is because it is a constitutional remedy, containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the most successful tonics known.—Hirsch Drug Co. Craig's drug store and druggists everywhere. It

Change in Sugar Regulations

The Food Administration issues the following:

Basing its action on a careful survey of the world sugar situation and a compilation of the immediate demands, the United States Food Administration calls on the American public to restrict the consumption of sugar in the home to 2 pounds per person per month from August 1 to January 1. This replaces the present regulation of 3 pounds per person per month, and includes all sugar used on the table and in cooking.

A similar order is being issued to govern public eating places, limiting their use of sugar to 2 pounds for every 90 meals served.

The Food Administration is confident that the American public will heartily agree to reduce the household use of sugar to a level more nearly equal to the present restrictions among the peoples of the allies ,provided our people clearly comprehend that sugar, which with us is often used in great measure as a luxury, has become an essential element for the success of the war among the nations of Europe. Upon our action here depends the possibility of maintaining the ration to our own fighting men and those of the allies as well as of avoiding a still further reduction of the allotments to the civil populations of the nations fighting Germany, which are already down to a point under their normal needs. England, which before the war, used more sugar than the United States, has hardly reduced its household consumption to 2 pounds. France allows its people a maximum of a pound and a half, and the Italian ration has been reduced to barely a pound. Recently even those amounts have not been possible.

Furthermore, unless there is strict and consistent economy in the United States, the supplies for Belgium and those required by the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army and similar organizations working for the welfare and comfort of our soldiers in Europe can not be maintained.

The situation which the United States faces in its efforts to maintain a fair distribution of sugar to the allied world is as follows: The sugar supplies throughout the country, in homes, stores, factories and bakeries are at low ebb; the production from the American beet and Louisiana cane crops have been disappointing; the yield in Porto Rico has likewise been smaller than anticipated; and the inability of the United States and the allies to secure sugar from Java and other distant sources on account of the imperative call for ships for the movement of troops and their supplies has materially reduced the supply from such quarters.

Added to this already difficult situation, the quantity needed by the Army and Navy greatly exceeds earlier estimates: we must send a large amount to France and Italy to take the place of the great volume lost through the German and Austrian invasions, during which much beet land was overrun and many factories destroyed; we have to supply certain quantities to neutral nations under agreements; and finally over 50,000,000 pounds were lost recently through submarine sinkings off our Atlantic coast.

The industries using sugar have been reduced in their consumption of sugar, most of them having their supplies cut in half and some receiving none at all. The situation is so serious that every possible means of conservation should be observed.

Household canning without sugar and where sugar is used, it should be only to the extent necessary to secure the maximum of preserving with the minimum use of sugar at this time With prospects of increased supplies after November 1, and still more after January 1, sugar may be then added with more freedom.

In order to make sure that the distribution of sugar in the United States shall be equitable, the Food Administration has worked out a scheme of allocation to the States, based on population, and taking into account the needs of sugar-using industries in the States. Within each state the details of distribution will be left to the Federal food administrators.

"I have doctored nine years for stomach and liver trouble and spent thousands of dollars, but instead of becoming cured of these ailments, my bloating and pains and attacks became worse. I was persuaded a year ago to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and have never suffered since taking the first dose. I wish I had the money back I spent for other medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. HAVE QUEER PETS

Lonely Men in Signal Tower Welcome All Sorts.

Cockroach That Likes Tobacco and Drinks Ink Is One Visitor—Toad Came Regularly for Its Feast of Flies.

A Boston and Maine railroad signal towerman tells this story of pets he has made in his lonely perch above the tracks:

At midnight nine months ago a cockroach crept out from under the telegraph desk and began to drink out of the inkwell; just about that time I laid my cigar down on the desk and began to work the telegraph key.

The cockroach walked over to my cigar and sucked at the moist end for a second or so, then ran to the inkwell again and took a drink, then came back to the cigar; he repeated this performance several times and staggered away drunk as a lord.

Every night around midnight for the past nine months this cockroach has drank from the inkwell on my desk and either sucked the moist end of my cigar or some moistened tobacco I place near the inkwell for him.

One of the boys found a tiny muskrat in the marsh back of the signal tower one day, and he brought it into the tower. The muskrat became very tame and proved a most affectionate pet. He slept on the desk near the telegraph instruments for over two years. Although he went out very often, he wouldn't stay long, and would scratch at the door until some of us would run downstairs and let him in. Unfortunately our pet was killed by a freight train while crossing the tracks near the tower one day.

After the muskrat died we brought in a tiny woodchuck that a trainman had captured out on the line, and he became very much attached to all of us, and, like the muskrat, he became a very clever and amusing pet. "Shuck" stayed with us two years, and finally he disappeared one day. Possibly some dog got him, or he may have been crushed by a train.

For the past 20 years an English sparrow has nested in the eaves of the tower, and this sparrow flies in and out of the tower at will, picks up bread crumbs on the floor and catches an occasional cockroach. What worries the tower men is that our pet sparrow may some day eat our pet cockroach.

Last year a toad hopped up on to the doorstep of the tower and sat there blinking. One of the boys fed him a fly and the toad gobbled it in an instant, and every afternoon all summer long that toad hopped up on to the step and ate flies as fast as the railroad men would feed them to him. The boys took turns and fed him in relays; the yardmaster said the boys were neglecting their work to feed the toad; but he became so fascinated watching the performance that he caught flies for an hour one day and fed the toad.

I'm afraid the toad will go hungry this summer if he shows up, for we're too busy moving war supplies to bother with feeding pets around a railroad yard.

Every stray dog that ever wandered into the ward has found a haven in the tower, and several litters of puppies have been born there.

We've had cats galore; one cat in particular was a snake catcher, and she brought in a snake nearly every day.

Drowning Pronounced Accidental

The inquest into the drowning of Mike Bochochim, John Kudzma and Patsy Frazetta in the Monongahela river Thursday night, July 25, was held Thursday at 4:30 p. m. before Deputy Coroner M. J. Cramer.

After hearing testimony, a verdict of accidental drowning was rendered, exonerating the Page Steel & Wire Co., from any blame. The jury was W. H. Keifer, Martin E. Griffith, A. Demmetti, W. J. Michaels, M. Rozner and John Smith.

These three men at rest hour on the evening of the accident paddled across the river in a canoe, using a piece of board as a propeller. When about 50 feet from shore on the return, the canoe was overturned and all drowned.

Boys Robbed Express Company of Money

A package containing $8,000 consigned to the Earlston Furnace company at Everett, Bedford county, from a banking house in Philadelphia, reached Huntingdon Friday night by express on the Pennsylvania railroad for subsequent transfer to the Huntingdon and Broad Top branch line on which Everett is located. Between Huntingdon and Everett the package disappeared. Detectives yesterday arrested Clyde Bowman, aged 16, and Clarence Hoffman, aged 19, local drivers of the express company. The boys, according to the detectives, had all but $300 of the missing money. Their lavish expenditures for motorcycles, fine clothes and other luxuries led to their arrest.

Mail Being Sent Through Air

What is considered a remarkable speed flight in the transmission of air mail from New York to Washington was accomplished yesterday, when, on a rush order from the capital, aeronautic maps of the Woodrow Wilson airway were delivered there to Second Assistant Postmaster General Otto Praeger in two and one half hours. Between New York and Philadelphia the airplane, piloted by Lieut. Stephen Bonsal, flew in 42 minutes with seven sacks of mail weighing 20 pounds. Another aviator took the mail to Washington.

The request for the maps was made upon Postmaster Patten at 11 a. m. Thirty minutes later the postal flier was aboard his machine with the documents and headed for Washington which he reached at 2 p. m.

The Woodrow Wilson airway maps are for use by aviators and show landmarks, elevations and other important objects in a belt 80 miles wide to guide them when flying. They were made under the supervision of Henry Woodhouse, a member of the board of governors of the Aero club of America, and comprise 17 sections, covering the distance from New York to San Francisco.

"OTHERS"

Lord, help me as I live today,
To walk the common human way,
That when I kneel at night to pray,
My prayer shall be for others.

Help me in all I try to do,
To be sincere, faithful and true
And feel that all I do for you
Is what I do for others.

Let me forget the ache and pain
That comes to me again, again,
And all my efforts be in vain,
Unless they be for others.

And when my earthly work is done,
And my reward with Thee is won,
I pray that there will be someone
Who'll say, "He lived for others."

Others; Lord, have loss to bear
That fills their hearts with grim despair,
Dear Lord I pray for strength to share
The cross of "Others."

—Rev. I. Jay Duke.
